Join us Feb. 27 to celebrate the

Columbus African-American Collection

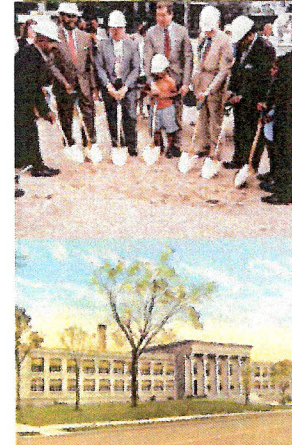

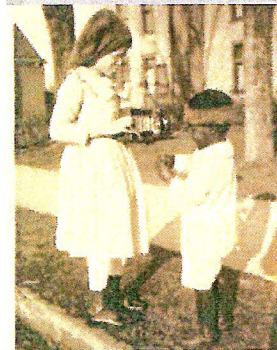

Columbus has a rich and diverse local history and we're preserving it for future generations. Newspapers, photos, manuscripts, maps and more are digitized to archive the history of African-Americans in Columbus.

Join us on Feb. 27 to celebrate the fifth anniversary of Columbus' African-American Collection. The program will include refreshments and a panel discussion with community leaders who have lived, worked and contributed to the vibrancy of the Near East Side.

We'll also highlight unique and significant items in the collection and share a selection of photos featuring the past and present of the neighborhood and of our Martin Luther King Branch.

Bring your personal local history materials and we'll scan them during the event.
